

The International Textile Market Association is excited to bring to your attention the plans we are making for our eleventh annual industry symposium to be held in High Point, North Carolina. The proposed dates for the 2009 tour will be January 21, 22 and 23. This program can accommodate up to 30 participants and will benefit students (junior and seniors) and professors in the textile design fields.

"Fabric from Concept to Consumer" will focus on the process of fabric creation, production, and use within the home furnishings industry. The tour will allow participants to see areas of design, styling and product development. We will also visit weaving, printing, and finishing operations.

The tour will be educational, interesting, and fun for you and your students. Due to the limited number of participants, we ask that you get in touch with us as soon as possible so your space may be reserved.

Participation Form: Return as soon as Possible
